BAND STORY

Based out of Wichita Falls, Texas , Jay Hollis doesn't play the part of a country boy, he IS country. Jay comes from a bull riding background - champion bull rider to be specific - that offers him an insiders look into what it means to be a cowboy.

Jay's PBR fans are loyal, activated, and keep him on the charts. In the first week of releasing his first single "One More Day," Jay sat in one of the top three positions on all radio station charts playing the song. Jay's music reaches beyond the rodeo circuit. He writes songs for rural America. Songs that speak directly to the daily lives of the common folk. Jay connects!

Jay is a true county music entertainer. He doesn't just play a song, he portrays the song through emotion, music, and storytelling. He draws fans in through his stage personality and creates an environment that allows bonds to be built and life long fans to be born. Jay Hollis is the real deal. Jay's songs are written from the soul and Jay has been quoted in the press as being " the James Taylor of Country Music." Jay's music touches emotions in a way that ensures fans are listening, critics are excited, and program directors remember his name. Jay Hollis is the new artist for true country music in 2009.
