Geography

An endless list of inspirations could be compiled from all the answers given by artists to the question, "What inspires you to music?" But geography doesn't always come to mind. In this case, though, landscapes inspire soundscapes. "Growing up in the mountains of New Mexico did wonders for my imagination." Besides that, of course, music itself is its own best inspiration and

The Sound Position acknowledges this. "I'm inspired by other musicians I hear." But another surprising aural influence is also noted by this top she artist. "I'm also inspired during moments of silence (when I can't hear them)." Whatever the muse fuel, though, the result is always magnificent when

The Sound Position is the artist in question.

The Artist at Work

The Sound Position is hard at work on new music. "We're experimenting with electronic techniques, sounds and composition including the arrangement of violin in our tracks." The group is putting together a new DVD showcasing

The Sound Position's work. "In the works is an animated DVD featuring our music and
